GERMANY

Breaking ground in Germany

By Mojca LOGAR

In November, my colleagues Bernard Božnar, Darja Ravnihar and myself set off to Germany, more specifically a gymnasium in Geislingen, near Ulm. At the Kaufmännische Schule Geislingen we were part of a teacher training course and started to build up a network for the upcoming student mobility. We were developing survival skills for the 21st century and created a basis for good relationships between our schools in the future. We took time to discuss future exchanges together, observed various classes, including the ones with refugee students. Experiencing the spirit of Advent Ulm was a nice addition.
